KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS

Build skill sets outside your language/area of study:

- Consider taking UGS 1050 – Major Exploration or attend the Major Expo in September to learn more
- Use a Gen Ed class to explore an area that interests you

Diversify your knowledge & put it into practice through various options:

- Complete an internship in various languages through the Hinckley Institute
- Pursue undergraduate research with UROP⁴
- Study abroad

TRANSFORMATION

Consider & plan for meaningful additions to your education:

- Explore learning abroad opportunities
- Pursue intensive language classes
- Join a campus organization relevant to your interests
- Consider an internship

- Language students will benefit from learning abroad; start planning now by collecting program and scholarship information
- Some languages have local internship options with Hinckley

IMPACT

Begin by exploring the impact you want to make:

- Are there examples you hope to emulate?
- What do you consider to be impactful?
- Is it important to you to use your language skills in this effort?

- Consider making an impact through a community service project or register for an Alternative Break
- Take a CEL⁶ class
- Attend a MUSE⁷ event or speaker

CAREER

- Visit the Career & Professional Development Center to engage with their many resources & get a head start building your future professional life

- Make an appointment with a Career Coach; they will help you explore potential careers that align with your strengths, values, interests, & personality

Use this map to explore, envision, design, and plan your Exceptional Educational Experience.

ABOUT THE MAJOR

The Department of World Languages and Cultures provides an in-depth look at multiple languages and cultures. If you are interested in expanding your worldview and knowledge of the diverse world you inhabit, then one of these 11 majors is a great fit for you! There are 8 majors that focus on language – Chinese, French, French Teaching, German, Japanese, Russian, Spanish, and Spanish Teaching – and 3 majors that focus on culture – Classics, Comparative Literacy and Cultural Studies, and Religious Studies. Within any of these majors, you'll further your understanding of other cultures, which in turn refines your critical thinking, writing, and communication skills across any language. You will have the opportunity to engage with literature, film, history, music, various aspects of popular media, and other arts to develop a comparative perspective on your own culture, language, values, history, and traditions. This inter-cultural understanding will help prepare you to engage intelligently and sympathetically with multiple peoples and nations across the world, opening the door to plenty of opportunities across diverse professions. The Department of World Languages and Cultures is committed to preparing you to contribute globally in all areas of social, cultural, business, and political interaction. You will become a more productive and empathetic citizen of Utah, the USA, and the world.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Develop cultural competency in a culture(s) of your choice.
- Gain broad knowledge and comprehension of the literature, history, geography, art, architecture, philosophy, religions, etc. of the region(s) in which a target language is spoken.
- Learn to apply critical analysis to cultural artifacts, particularly texts, in a chosen culture(s) and across cultures.
- Communicate knowledge effectively both in a chosen language(s) and one's own native language.

PLAN & PREPARE

At the U, we plan for our students to have an Exceptional Educational Experience identified by four broad categories we call the Learning Framework: Community, Knowledge & Skills, Transformation, and Impact. This major map will help you envision, explore, design, and plan your personalized Exceptional Educational Experience with the Learning Framework at the core. In addition to assisting you in planning your coursework and navigating the requirements of your major, it will help you incorporate other kinds of experiences that will expand your knowledge, support your development, and prepare you for the future you want.
